REMOTE SIMULTANEOUS INTERPRETATION (RSI) FOR LIVE EVENTS

Remote Simultaneous Interpretation (RSI) is a new take on running multilingual events anywhere in the world by streaming the interpretation to the attendees via their mobile device. Utilizing the power of cloud computing, Atlas Language Services is able to provide interpretation for events of any size directly from Atlas' remote studio. This allows multilingual events to take place without having interpreters and equipment on-site. All of the interpretation is facilitated within Atlas' remote studio, where it is streamed directly to the attendees of the event via the cloud-based platform KUDO.

This model allows event organizers to save time, money and space while planning and overseeing live multilingual events.

RSI is a great option for certain events, but we will be the first to say that it is NOT ideal for every event. Please consult our team for a thorough analysis and consultation.

KUDO STUDIO – RSI PLATFORM

Atlas is proud to be the Chicago KUDO studio partner! KUDO is an RSI cloud-based solution for multilingual business collaboration and events. KUDO streams real-time language interpretation to your meetings and live conferences, so everyone can listen and participate in their preferred language. Utilizing the highest quality equipment allows us to ensure that audio quality is pristine. We have implemented a double redundancy system within our studio and network which ensures that unforeseen internet and power disruptions will not affect your event. In each of our studio booths we have 32" LCD monitors to display the event live for the interpreters with state of the art headphones and microphones. Our studio can support up to ten (10) languages with anticipated room to grow in the future. Our roster of certified interpreters gives us the ability to guarantee the highest quality interpreters regardless of the topic of the event.

ATTENDEE CONNECT

Attendees can connect via a hyperlink or by downloading the free KUDO app. Either option allows users to pick the channel that corresponds to their linguistic needs and allows them to gain the full value of the event, live in their own language! By having the attendees use their own devices, we cut out the need for both transmitters and receivers. This allows the event organizers to avoid fees for missing or damaged equipment. The app can handle up to 32 languages simultaneously, enough for all the major world languages, and then some!

COST DIFFERENCES

RSI allows event organizers to reduce costs that are associated with traditional simultaneous interpretation systems. Costs that are related to equipment rental and shipping are reduced since equipment is housed remotely in the Atlas Studio as well as costs that are associated with the interpreters being onsite may be reduced. However, additional costs such as increased broadband speed, WAP's, etc. may exist so please consult an Atlas team member to determine if RSI is right for you!

WEB CONFERENCES

We offer over-the-web meetings and video conferencing in multiple languages. Attendees can participate in web meetings and training sessions, share content and collaborate globally. Your technical team is in Baghdad and your consultants are in Knoxville, Tennessee?

No worries, this is a perfect opportunity to utilize web conferences. We make those difficult multi-language meetings simple! With the ability to stream on the web and the app your participants can truly communicate regardless of the language.

WEBINARS

With our platform you can easily support the event regardless of geographical limitations and users can easily join any meeting with a single click and enjoy high-quality audio and video with engaging participation features. Your audience has just gone GLOBAL!
